MILLIONS LOST

By Railroads Because of the Anthracite Strike.

Gen. Gobin's Order to Shoot to Kill--No Disturbances Among Strikers and Troops--Day's News in Coal Strike District.

Philadelphia, Aug. 30.—The net losses of the leading anthracite coal roads are as follows for the four months of the strike:

Reading system	$3,800,000
Lehigh Valley	2,660,000
Jersey Central	1,064,000
New York, Susquehanna and Western	350,000
Ontario and Western	150,000
Erie	600,000
Total	$8,624,000

RIOTING STOPPED.

Tamaqua, Aug. 30.—There were no disturbances among the strikers and the troops last night. Everything is quiet this morning. Gen. Gobin's order to the soldiers to shoot to kill any one who interfered with them has had immediate effect upon the riotous element.

HELP FROM UNION CUT OFF.

Scranton, Aug. 30.—Since the strike began not a car of coal has been mined in the Lackawanna districts, despite the statement of the operators. Fifteen of the twenty-five men who quit work at No. 55 colliery of the Pennsylvania Coal company about ten days ago, returned to work yesterday because the $5 per week which they were receiving from the union was discontinued.

Of Charles Bieberbach Occurs in Columbus—Former B. & O. Engineer of Newark.

Undertaker George F. Bowers went to Columbus this morning and will return this evening with the remains of Charles Bieberbach, of this city, who died at the State Hospital at Columbus Friday night aged 44 years.

Mr. Bieberbach was for many years one of the best known B. & O. engineers in Newark and was the son of Mrs. August Paul of 50 Webb street. The time for the funeral has not yet been set.

MEN STRUCK

When the Trolley Company Refused to Reinstate Two Motormen Who Were Discharged.

Glenfalls, N. Y., Aug. 30.—The Hudson Valley trolley road, running from Waterford to Warrensburg, is tied up this morning. Three hundred men are idle. Two motormen who were in a recent wreck, were discharged and the union demanded their return. When the company refused the men went on a strike.

COL. COOPER

Prominent Mt. Vernon Citizen Died on Friday Evening at the Age of 71 Years.

Mt. Vernon, O., Aug. 30.—Colonel William C. Cooper died last evening aged 71 years. The Colonel was for years prominent in Ohio politics and had a national reputation. He served as Colonel in the civil war and held several offices in this county. From 1881 to 1900 he was in Congress, his last political battle being at the time he secured a Nash delegation from Knox county when George K. Nash was nominated for governor. His wife and two daughters survive.

The funeral of Col. Cooper will take place at 3 p. m. next Tuesday.

The "Mothers' Meeting," held on Tuesday, August 26, was in charge of Mrs. B. F. Patt, and was very helpful and enjoyable to all present. The first paper was read by Mrs. C. C. Metz entitled, "To Whom Does the Child Belong?"

Second, Mrs. Johnson, "Baby Character."

Third, "How to Teach Children Music; the Parents' Part," Mrs. Chapman.

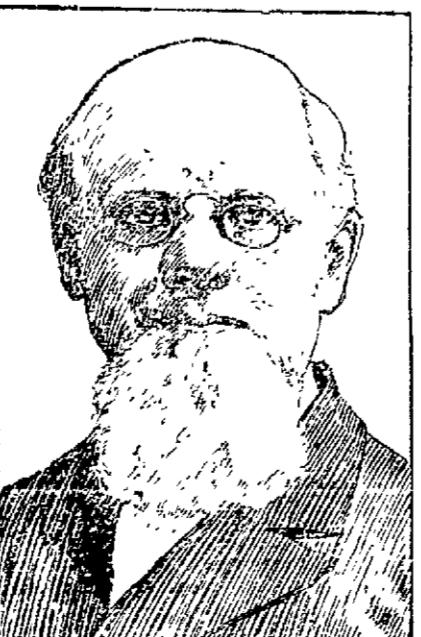

Fourth, "White Slaves in the South," Mrs. B. F. Patt.

As a whole the papers were very carefully selected and proved very instructive. Choice selections were sung and the exercises closed with prayer, after which the president took the chair and attended to the business of the meeting. A number of visitors were present and after the adjournment of the meeting light refreshments were served and a short time spent socially.

On next Tuesday the annual meeting will be held. At this meeting the yearly reports of the officers and superintendents will be heard and the election of officers will be had. The devotional exercises will be conducted by Mrs. Galloway. The President, Mrs. Sisson, urges the importance of every member being present.

The corresponding secretary, Mrs. C. C. Metz, desires the officers and superintendents to be prompt in making out their reports, as it is very necessary for her to fill out the blanks which have been sent her preparatory to the State convention.

CODE

Prepared by Gov. Nash Badly Mutilated.

Federal Plan Advocates Too Strong.

SO CALLED COMING BILL MAY BE INTRODUCED.

PUGH-KIBLER CODE MEASURE

Was Used as a Pattern in Framing the Latter Bill—Hearings Fixed by House.

Columbus, Aug. 30.—Governor Nash is viewing the General Assembly's deliberations upon his code bill from a very high altitude. He's away up in the air. The legislators seem disposed to do anything but what the Governor desires, and they have already proposed so many amendments to his code bill that it will be beyond recognition when it is finally passed. In fact, it will be practically a new bill, and there is a possibility that it will not be passed at all. The Governor is not only very much chagrined at the manner in which his new municipal system has been received, but very much alarmed over its ultimate disposition.

The advocates of the federal plan of administration, which is discarded in the Governor's bill, are increasing rapidly, and the members of both branches are finding new faults with the details of the Governor's system each day.

The present attitude of many of the members is such as to make the rejection of the Governor's bill and the introduction of a substitute code probable at any time. The Governor has broken away from Senator Hanna and pinned his faith in George B. Cox of Cincinnati, and this has not tended to aid his bill.

The House Special Code Committee decided to hold no public hearings after September 12. This is done with the view to shortening the session, which now bids fair to extend into the middle of October, and seriously embarrass the Republican campaign.

The fury caused by the bold declaration of Senator Hanna for perpetual franchises has passed away in the halls of legislation, only to be succeeded by another, which is equally serious in character. The newest sensation is over the apparent defection of Speaker McKinnon from the support of the Governor's bill.

THE COAL STRIKE.

Now comes the news from Philadelphia that Brigadier General Gobin, who is in command of the troops in the Pennsylvania coal fields, has issued an order that the soldiers shall shoot any person detected in throwing stones or other missiles and that if any mob resists the authorities or the troops they shall use their bayonets and rifle butts. The order was issued because of the Panther Creek tumult. Already the coal strike, which next Monday begins its seventeenth week, has seen bloodshed but the restless condition of the men which is daily becoming worse makes it practically certain that there will be further clashes, more injury and possibly loss of life.

A new feature has been introduced in the New River, West Virginia, strike, which is told in dispatches from Charleston, the capital of West Virginia. It is to the effect that bloodhounds have been secured to trail the strikers who are suspected of shooting at the guards who are employed at the mines. More prisoners have been sent to jail under the process of injunction and contempt of court. The tents used by the National Guard when in service have been applied for to shelter the families of evicted miners, over 800 families having been ordered from their homes and forced to camp on the open hills at one place in the New River district.

Taken altogether, affairs in the West Virginia and Pennsylvania coal districts are not promising. In Ohio occasionally bloodhounds are used to track murderers and robbers but the West Virginians have gone Ohio one better—or one worse—in using dogs to suppress strikes.

The coal trust has its hands full of high cards and is playing the game at a fast and furious rate. In the meantime J. P. Morgan says nothing. When and how will the great struggle end?

In answer to Mr. Morgan's query "What can I do to stop the coal strike?" the New York World replies, as follows:

"When there was a presidential election pending, in the face of a similar strike two years ago, the great financier of the mergers and the trusts needed no advice as to what action he could take. He gave the word and the operators yielded a 10 per cent advance in wages."

Ohio's governor has struck a snag quite early in the extra session canoeing, but the little jolt he received in the Senate the other day may not be in it with what is liable to follow when the legislators get down to actual work on the code bill.

STATE CONVENTION

Sandusky Will Do All in Its Power to Make Gathering a Success—Administration's Defeat Presages Further Trouble—Fur Will Soon Begin To Fly.

Columbus, Aug. 30.—Interest in the Democratic State convention at Sandusky next Tuesday and Wednesday has been materially increased during the past few days, but if any tangible facts have developed in regard to candidates they are not apparent to the average student of Ohio politics. This convention will nominate candidates for secretary of state, justice of the supreme court, state dairy and food commissioner and member of the state board of public works. Interest naturally centers in the lead of the ticket, or would do so under normal conditions. This year, however, a disposition is apparent to reserve formal candidacies until the last moment, and this policy is regarded by many astute politicians as the wisest that could be pursued under existing conditions. It will at least prevent any candidate from carrying the convention by storm by means of a widespread personal organization and will leave the entire subject of nominations to the cool judgment of the delegates after they have assembled. The belief is general among close observers of politics that few if any formal announcements of candidates will be made until the delegates are on the ground.

The leaders would be glad enough to comply with these requests, but are unable to see exactly how it is to be done. There was uneasiness among the leaders when it became apparent that a special session would have to be called. They hoped, however, to limit consideration to the code and the Royer law and by expediting action minimize the danger to the party in the election. Now that it seems practically assured that the bars will be let down and a great number of bills introduced the campaign managers are seriously alarmed. Many of the most prominent Republican members of both branches of the legislature are in open revolt against the Nash-Hanna program to restrict legislation to the propositions of the governor's code and the repeal of the Royer act. These insurgents are led by Speaker McKinnon in the House and President pro tem Archer in the Senate. The signal defeat of the attempt in the Senate on Wednesday to thus restrict the action of the senators was a stinging blow to the administration forces and presaged more trouble for them in the near future. The legislature on Friday adjourned until Thursday of next week in order to give the Democratic members an opportunity to attend the state convention. Little business will be transacted next week, therefore, but with the dawn of the following Monday the Republican fur will begin to fly in earnest.

Preparations for the convention at Sandusky are completed and every thing is in readiness for the reception of the delegates. There has been constitution framed by the odious ringsters now in control of the Republican organization.

A NEW CONSTITUTION.
(Toledo Bee.)

And now Dick and his henheads are raising the cry that the constitution must be amended. They claim that the state has outgrown it and that a measure suited to our needs and development should be framed.

The constitution may be a trifle antiquated in some respects, but it is a pretty respectable and comprehensive institution for all that. It is indefinitely preferable to such an instrument as would be turned out by the Dicks and Hannas and Coxes.

A REVOLUTIONARY EPISODE

[Original]

In the little town of Springfield there is a church over 200 years old. In its middle age soldiers of the Revolution were quartered there and in its old age it sheltered a regiment marching to save the capital from the Confederates. There are sixteen panes of glass in every sash and sixty-four panes in every window. The pews remind one of pens, and the pulpit is perched up under the roof. But the oldest fashioned thing about it is the clock in the little steeple.

During the Revolution the care of the church fell temporarily into the hands of one of the deacons, an ardent Tory. At the time of the occupation of the region by the British Deacon Bradford, occupying neutral ground between both armies, was especially diligent in supplying the British with information and in keeping his eye open for patriots who were engaged in like efforts for the Americans. The deacon having gone as a chaplain and the sexton as a wagon master with the revolutionists, Deacon Bradford slept in the parsonage, which stood in the next lot to the church, in order to keep it under his personal supervision. His sole duty was once a week to wind the clock. The rest of the time he was spying on the American army for the benefit of the British.

One Saturday night he had taken his lantern and was about to start for the belfry to wind the clock when he heard the clatter of horses' hoofs, and a moment later a dozen British horsemen rode up to the parsonage.

"Deacon," said the leader, "important papers have been missed today from the general's headquarters, and this evening a youth who has been loitering near the general's office is missing. We have tracked a figure flitting along before us which disappeared behind the church. Perhaps it is hiding there."

"No one could get in there," said the deacon, "without the keys. However, we will see."

He led the way to the church door, opened it, and the soldiers, aided by the light of the lantern, poked into every cranny. When no one was found, they rode on, followed by the deacon. Before departing he called to his son Anthony, who had come to the church to see what was going on, to wind the clock and be sure not to forget it.

When they had all gone, Anthony took the lantern and went up into the belfry. Setting the lantern on the floor, he took up the iron crank, fixed it to the arbor and began to turn. The weight seemed unusually heavy, and Anthony wondered what was the matter. When the crank stopped turning, the young man stood mute with astonishment at seeing a young girl step off the weight. She was pale as death.

"Oh, Anthony!" she exclaimed. "I supposed your father was winding the clock. If so, I should have been lost."

"What does it all mean?"

"I am trying to get away from General —'s headquarters with valuable papers. I know every corner in the old church and came in by way of a loose window in the cellar. Then I went into the weight closet and got on the weight. I heard them searching, and they opened the door to the closet, but I stood too high for them to see me."

"They said they were after a boy. My brother Sam was watching his opportunity to get some papers he had seen on the general's desk. He did not know what they were worth, but he was bound to do something for his country. When he got them, he brought them to me, knowing that he would be suspected. I was going to General Washington's headquarters with them when they gave chase."

"Tony," called a voice from below.

Whatever of color had returned to the girl's cheeks left them in an instant. She recognized the deacon's voice. Both stood looking at each other, mute with terror.

"Tony," repeated the voice, "if you wound the clock come down."

Tony was about to do the only thing he could do—go downstairs, leaving the girl to come out later—when he heard his father's step on the stairs below.

FOR LABOR DAY

Everything is Ready for the Big Celebration and Large Crowd...
Elks' State Reunion and Carnival Also Opens
Here on Monday, September 1.

It is meet that one day in the 365 should be set aside by custom, recognized by law in every state, sanctioned by executive proclamation, and generally observed; given over to a recognition of the claims, necessities and pleasures of that greatest of all classes of our people, the laborer, the toiler, who in workshop or factory in office or behind a counter, works for his daily bread and by the return for this labor receives his wage, by which he is enabled to purchase the necessities, often the comforts and sometimes the luxuries for himself and those dependent upon him.

The institution of Labor Day is comparatively recent that is as fixed holiday in the toilers' calendar. It is now provided by law that the first Monday in September should be designated as a day of recreation for the employees of whatever kind, and in the various proclamations issued by governors of states the employer is urged to cooperate cheerfully and materially in celebrating the day in fitting style. The name of the holiday itself is a recognition of the great array of toilers, organized for their own protection and the good of those dependent upon them. In Labor Day, all who work do not enter into the spirit of the holiday. The genius of its conception and the significance of its general celebration center around the idea of organization, and on this day the trades unions, and labor federations have full sway, and whatever individual opinion as to the merits or disadvantages of organization, for the time none but those in sympathy with the principle of organization are heard expressed.

"Labor Day" suggests the celebration of the organized hosts of workers, and the union man is the center around whom all the pleasures, relaxations and observations, incident to the day, circled to be used by him for his enjoyment and profit.

For some time past Mt. Vernon, Mansfield and Newark have been members of a tacit tri-city league for the celebration of Labor Day.

Last year the monster celebration was held in Mansfield, and it was there decided that Labor Day in 1902 should be observed in Mt. Vernon. After this representatives of the local lodge of Elks succeeded in having Newark named as the place and the first week in September as the time for the fifth annual convention of the Elks of Ohio.

This was realized as an opportunity, and arrangements were made for a carnival week of festivities and gaiety. It was seen at once that monster Labor Day celebration would be an inspiring launching of carnival week, and committees of Elks and representatives of the Labor Unions decided upon a plan of co-operation.

The situation was explained to the trades union people of Mt. Vernon and assurance given that if that city would waive the right to the Labor Day celebration, and assist in making it a success in Newark in 1902 this city, with Mansfield, would join in giving Mt. Vernon the biggest day in her history on the first Monday in September.

The plan was acceptable to Mt. Vernon, and the unions voted unanimously to come to Newark.

Of course, the Labor Day celebration will be the big event of the week, but every day will have its special attractions at the Elks' Carnival, and altogether the week will be the busiest and biggest in the history of the city.

On Monday every factory will shut down, every store will close, the newspapers will give editors, pressmen, news writers, printers and even the "devil" a holiday, so that every branch of industry will be suspended and the day given over to enjoyment and pleasure as each individual will select.

The program for the day's events follows:

The grand industrial parade in the city will move at ten a.m. Line of march—The parade will form on North Third street, and will move south on Third street to Church, west on Church to Fifth, south on Fifth to Main, East on Main to Square, around North Side of Square to East Main street, out East Main street to Cedar street; Counter march on East Main street to Square, around South Side to West Main street, west on West Main street to Sixth street and disband.

Miss Winifred Fulton entertained a number of her friends at pedro last Tuesday afternoon at her home south of the city. The prize for the most progressions was received by Miss Amy Franklin. At six o'clock luncheon was served to the following guests: Misses Stella Howard, Mabel Phillips, Florence Jones, Ivy Edwards, Ruby Franklin, Besse Reid, Mable Miller, Helen Crane, Amy Franklin, Midge and Glenna Cramer, Ethel Rex, Helen Loving, Cassie Hillier, Roxy Allen, Hazel Thomas, Bertha Peaney, Lulu Barrick, Ruby Jones, Lulu Starr, Grace Neidig, Ethel Metz, Myrtle Miller, and Miss Oyler of Columbus.

Miss Marie Lyda entertained a number of her friends on Wednesday evening in honor of Misses Margaret and Arline Hatch of Columbus. The evening was spent with cards, ping-pong, and dancing. The first prize was awarded to Miss Marion Hatch. Those present were Martha Schindel, Bernice Hatch, Anna Davis, Spray Douse, Marion Hatch, Bertha Fulton, Ruth Hatch, Lida King, Margaret and Arline Hatch, Kathryn Vance, Helen Beall and Zeda Racmer, of Marion, Ohio.

Mrs. Mannion gave a children's party on Tuesday afternoon at her home on Church street, in honor of the tenth birthday of her daughter Lillian. There were twenty-five little guests, and all sorts of games were played, and refreshments were served in the garden. Miss Lillian received many beautiful presents, and the afternoon was one of great pleasure for the little people. The great feature of the afternoon was the cutting of the birthday cake, which was very handsomely decorated, and on top was written with icing Lillian Marion, Tenth Anniversary.

Miss Mabel Phillips was the hostess to about sixteen of her friends on Friday afternoon. It was a farewell party as in two weeks Miss Phillips will leave for Cincinnati where she will enter the College of Music. After playing pedro a dainty supper was served. Miss Besse Reid was the fortunate winner of the first prize, while the consolation was awarded to Miss Winifred Fulton. The players were Misses Cassie Hillier, Mabel Miller, Besse Reid, Hazel Thomas, Amy Franklin, Helen Crane, Mary Haight, Lulu May Barrick, Florence Jones, Ethel Metz, May Kammerer, Winifred Fulton, Justina Gleichenhau, Stella Howard, Miss Jones of Columbus, and Miss Neidig of Maryland.

AMUSEMENTS

"One of the most beautiful plays I ever saw" is the nightly verdict of scores of pleased auditors after witnessing the big production of "The Night Before Christmas." Particular emphasis is placed upon the assertion made by the management that this play is "absolutely clean in all that the word implies" and the patronage of ladies and children has been so heavy that the wisdom of appealing to the better natures of the public instead of pandering to the grosser sensibilities has been amply justified. There is plenty of dramatic intensity but it is clean and not forced. There is plenty of comedy but of the kind that brings hearty, natural laughter that does men and women good. This charming domestic picture of rural life in the old Buckeye state will be presented at the Auditorium tonight.

NEXT THURSDAY NIGHT. A large seat sale prefaces the engagement of the Amelia Bingham Special company in "A Modern Magdalen" and the many out of town orders received from theatre goers, would indicate that this great organization would be greeted with a crowded house at the Auditorium, Tuesday evening, September 2. Two seasons only have elapsed since Miss Bingham determined to enter the field as an independent manager and producer and since that time she has demonstrated her capacity to intelligently direct a high class dramatic company which has set the one of the best bi's of the season at standard for dramatic endeavor in this Idewilde park casino, but for the country. Securing the most brilliant in week Manager Lingafelter has actors on the stage, and not hesitating booked one equally as good which is at expense, she delighted New York opened by Charles Xenna, the monarch with her magnificent production of "The Climbers" by Clyde Fitch, and "The Pafak." LODGES

WORKMEN HELD A RECEPTION FRIDAY NIGHT

In Honor of Newly Elected Officers—Elks Will Have Full Swing—Notes of Lodges.

Friday night was a gala night for the members of the A. O. U. W. order in Newark, comprised of Golden Rod Lodge and Crescent recently organized. As was announced in Friday's Advocate at the recent session of the Grand Temple of Honor of Ohio, an auxiliary of the A. O. U. W. held in Toledo, Mrs. W. M. Rank was elected to the important office of Mistress of Ceremonies, and at the session of the lodge of A. O. U. W. held at the same time Mr. W. M. Rank was elected as Guide to the Grand Lodge, and Dr. I. N. Palmer, both being members of Golden Rod Lodge, was elected to the highest position in the order in the state, viz., Grand Master Workman of Ohio. These three distinguished honors came with almost overwhelming force upon the members of the order in Newark, but they managed to rally and Friday night a reception and jollification was held over the event, under the auspices of Golden Rod Lodge, to which the members of Crescent Lodge were invited guests.

At 8 o'clock the Workmen marched in large numbers to the home of Dr. Palmer, on West Locust street, and escorted him to the lodge, amid the firing of rockets and Roman candles, carried in the procession. After a brief session spent in hand shaking and congratulations, all present sat down to a dainty banquet, of which the following was the menu:

Celery, Bananas, Pickles, Cake, Ice Cream, Coffee, Cigars. Prof. C. M. Humes, formerly of the Newark public schools, presided very gracefully as toastmaster, and after a few happy remarks introduced Dr. I. N. Palmer, the new Grand Master Workman of Ohio. Dr. Palmer made some extended and feeling remarks, in which he briefly reviewed the glorious history of the order, and the grand results that had been accomplished, and prophesied still greater results in the future.

Mr. Wallace M. Rank, the newly elected Grand Guide, spoke next, briefly, but happily, and in his usual modest manner, thanking his friends for the honor that had been conferred upon him. The following gentlemen then spoke briefly in their order, most of them being members of the order, and a few invited guests, upon subjects appropriate to the occasion: Judge E. M. P. Brister, O. B. Young, W. A. Irvine, F. L. Woodbridge, Deputy Lamb, Will D. Harris, Dr. J. N. Robb, Wm. Lemert, W. J. Shields, Jr. The speeches as a whole were above the usual rank of such efforts and were heartily applauded. The pleasant meeting then adjourned, all rising and singing one of the closing odes.

The entire affair, which was a complete and delightful success, was under the management of the following committee of arrangements which deserves great credit for its efforts: P. L. Pratt, R. E. McGonagle, Charles Nevins, Stewart Caffe, Dale Ryan, S. W. Warner and Willis Kochenour.

The Ferris Wheel. The feature of the World's Fair Midway was its immense Ferris Wheel. The feature of the Bostock-Ferari Mighty Midway Carnival Aggregation is also a large Ferris Wheel which carries its passengers 50 feet in the air with such delightful poetry of motion that they do not feel they are moving at all. A powerful engine turns the great wheel, which is of steel and the cars of which are all upholstered in red plush and finished in brass. At night hundreds of vari-colored electric lights add to the beauty of it and as it slowly and majestically revolves flashing its glittering lights, its beauty is surpassing. It will be here on the midway of the Elk's Carnival all next week.

Tonight will witness the closing of a dramatic company which has set the one of the best bi's of the season at standard for dramatic endeavor in this Idewilde park casino, but for the country. Securing the most brilliant in week Manager Lingafelter has actors on the stage, and not hesitating booked one equally as good which is at expense, she delighted New York opened by Charles Xenna, the monarch with her magnificent production of "The Climbers" by Clyde Fitch, and "The Pafak." He is followed by Ida continuing her season en tour and in Russell, the character comedienne and the metropolis, she found the same fa. Shannon and Lucier, in their singing peer in "A Modern Magdalen." When and dancing act. After the intermission it is stated that her company is with, Maybelle Gage the vocalist, entering a peer it must be decided by a tains with up to date songs. The bill comparison of its personnel and every is closed by Joe Myra and Buster Kea theatre goer is familiar with the names ton, in their clever comedy act.

Modern Woodmen. Cedar Camp, Modern Woodmen held a very interesting meeting last Wednesday evening and adopted Walter A. Irvine and Charles Doltfitt to the mysteries of Woodcraft. There were seventy-five members present which is remarkable attendance for the summer months. But every member expects to see and hear something good at the Woodmen meeting which is discarded tomato can. "Brownie" is the name ton, in their clever comedy act.

CONGRESSMAN CROWLEY

Uses Peruna in His Family For Catarrhal and Nervous Affections.

Hon. Joseph B. Crowley, Congressman from Illinois, writes from Robinson, Ill., the following praise for the great catarrhal tonic, Peruna. Congressman Crowley says:

"After giving Peruna a fair trial I can cheerfully recommend your remedy to anyone suffering with coughs, colds and la grippe, and all catarrhal complaints."

"Mrs. Crowley has taken a number of bottles of Peruna on account of nervous troubles. It has proven a strong tonic and lasting cure. I can cheerfully recommend it."—J. B. CROWLEY.

No other remedy invented by man has ever received as much praise from men of high station as Peruna. Over forty members of Congress have tried it and recommended it to suffering humanity. They use it themselves to guard against the effects of the intense strain of public life; to ward off the ill effects of the changeable climate of Washington. They keep it in their homes for family use. They recommend it to their neighbors, and they do not hesitate in public print to declare their appreciation and endorsement of this greatest of modern remedies.

It is exactly as Congressman Crowley says: "Peruna is a swift and sure remedy for coughs, colds and la grippe and all catarrhal complaints. It is an excellent remedy in all nervous troubles. It never fails to prove itself a powerful tonic and a lasting cure." This is what Congressman Crowley says, and this is what thousands of other people are saying all over the United States.

Congressman Romulus Z. Linney from Taylorsville, N. C., writes: "My secretary had as bad a case of catarrh as I ever saw, and since he has taken one bottle of Peruna he seems like a different man."—Romulus Z. Linney.

Congressman A. T. Goodwyn, Robinson Springs, Ala., writes: "I have now used one bottle of Peruna and am well man today."—A. T. Goodwyn.

U. S. Senator W. N. Roach from Laramore, N. D., writes: "I have used Peruna as a tonic. It has greatly helped me in strength, vigor and appetite."

Congressman H. W. Ogden from Benton, La., writes: "I can conscientiously recommend your Peruna."—H. W. Ogden.

Congressman H. W. Smith from Murphysboro, Ill., writes: "I have taken one bottle of Peruna for my catarrh and I feel very much benefited."—Geo. W. Smith.

Congressman David Meekison from Napoleon, O., writes: "I have used several bottles of Peruna and feel greatly benefited thereby from my catarrh of the head."—David Meekison.

Congressman Stephen P. Mallory, Senator M. C. Butler, ex-Governor of South Carolina, writes: "I can recommend Peruna for dyspepsia and stomach trouble."—M. C. Butler.

Senator W. V. Sullivan from Oxford, Miss., writes: "I take pleasure in recommending your great national catarrhal cure, Peruna, as the best I have ever tried."—W. V. Sullivan.

Senator J. M. Thurston from Omaha, Neb., writes: "Peruna entirely relieved me of a very irritating cough."—J. M. Thurston.

Congressman H. G. Worthington from Nevada, writes: "I have taken one bottle of Peruna and it has benefited me immensely."—H. G. Worthington.

Congressman Howard from Ft. Payne, Ala., writes: "I have taken Peruna for la grippe, and I take pleasure in recommending Peruna as an excellent remedy."—M. W. Howard.

Congressman Willis Brewer from Haynesville, Ala., writes: "I have used one bottle of Peruna for la grippe, and I take pleasure in recommending it."—Willis Brewer.

If you do not derive prompt and satisfactory results from the use of Peruna, write at once to Dr. Hartman, giving a full statement of your case and he will be pleased to give you his valuable advice gratis.

Address Dr. Hartman, President of the Hartman Sanitarium, Columbus, Ohio.

Browne and the Elks' Goat.

An event that was not down on the program of the Elks' great reunion and carnival took place on East Main street on Friday afternoon that was witnessed by a large crowd of astonished spectators. It seems that "Brownie," the accomplished and popular steward of the Elks' Club, determined to take a little outing behind the thoroughbred import goat, recently presented to Newark by Mr. Martin Flanagan, formerly a member of Newark Lodge, but now of New Castle, Pa. The afternoon was balmy, the goat frisky and "Brownie" was gotten up in his usual faultless array, wearing an 18 carat diamond, recently purchased on his trip to San Francisco. All went well until Brownie and the goat were passing the Episcopal church, when the goat took fright at a passing team and bolted. The chariot races in Ben Hur were not a marker to what followed, but the goat had the bit in his teeth. The cart upset, "Brownie" was thrown out suddenly and promiscuously and the goat went on to the German village. Again no one will put on an extra pair of blinder.

NEWARK ADVOCATE

KIDNEY TROUBLES.

Mrs. Louise M. Gibson Says That This Fatal Disease is Easily Cured by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

Of all the diseases known with which the female organism is afflicted, kidney disease is the most fatal. In fact, unless prompt and correct treatment is applied, the weary patient seldom survives.

Being fully aware of this, Mrs. Pinkham, early in her career, gave exhaustive study to the subject, and in producing her great remedy for woman's ills—Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound—was careful to see that it contained the correct combination of herbs which was sure to control that dreaded disease, woman's kidney troubles. The Vegetable Compound acts in harmony with the laws that govern the entire female system, and while there are many so-called remedies for kidney troubles, Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound is the only one especially prepared for women.

MRS. LOUISE M. GIBSON,

Corresponding Secretary Woodlawn Country Club, Chicago, Ill.

"DEAR MRS. PINKHAM:—I felt very discouraged two years ago, I had suffered so long with kidney troubles and other female complications, and had taken so much medicine without relief that I began to think there was no hope for me. Life looked so good to me, but what is life without health? I wanted to be well.

"Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound cured me and made me well, and that is why I gladly write and thank you; six bottles was all I took, together with your Pills. My headache and backache are all gone, and my kidney trouble went, never to return; the burning sensation I had left altogether; my general health was so improved I felt as young and light and happy as at twenty.

"I am a sincere admirer of yours and feel that you must have a host of friends all over this country who feel as I do, even though they do not express it."—Mrs. Louise M. Gibson, 4813 Langley Ave., Chicago, Ill.

The troubles to which women are subject, because of their sex, are legion. Every day a woman is liable to have a new pain. Excessive worry may disturb the menstrual function and unsettle the nerves, over-exertion may set up some abdominal inflammation, or a trifling accident deranges the whole reproductive system.

If you feel that there is anything at all unusual or puzzling about your case, or if you wish confidential advice of the most experienced, write to Mrs. Pinkham, Lynn, Mass., and you will be advised free of charge. Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound has cured and is curing thousands of cases of female troubles—curing them inexpensively and absolutely. Remember this when you go to your druggist. Insist upon getting Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

REWARD.—We have deposited with the National City Bank of Lynn, $5000 reward to be paid to the person who can find that the above testimonial letter is not genuine, or was published before obtaining the writer's special permission.

Dan Patch Lowers Record.

Providence, R. I., Aug. 30.—The Grand Circuit meeting at Narragansett Park was brought to a close Friday afternoon in a blaze of glory. Dan Patch, the unbeaten son of Joe Patchen, paced an exhibition mile in 1:59 1-2 reducing his record from 2:00 1-4. The mile was within a quarter of a second of the world's record of 1:59 1-4 made by Star Pointer at Readville five years ago. This is the fastest mile in harness in half a decade and Dan Patch is the second horse to beat two minutes. No other horse except Star Pointer ever went so fast and he did it only twice and then beat Dan Patch's mark of today by only a quarter of a second. Star Pointer also went once in 1:59 3-4 so this is the third time a horse ever beat two minutes. Myron McHenry drove the famous brown stallion, and his owner, M. E. Sturges of New York, watched the performance from a box in the grand stand. An immense throng saw the exhibition.

The track was lightning fast. The trial was made about 4 o'clock. There

Remnants of Powerful Race Found Living In Mexico.

DISCOVERY OF NOTED SCIENTIST.

Dr. Ales Hrdlicka of the American Museum of Natural History in New York Says the Traditions and Customs of Another Age Are Preserved in the Present Tribe.

That the ancient race of the Aztecs exists today in the state of Morelos, Mexico, their race lines and physical characteristics unchanged, although the arts and civilization of four centuries ago are lost, has been established by Dr. Ales Hrdlicka of the American Museum of Natural History of New York. The discovery is one of the results of his fourth expedition to that region, from which he has just returned.

Scientists knew that a remnant of the nation lived in Mexico, but Dr. Hrdlicka is the first to reach an absolute conclusion by means of measurements and like physiological observations. That they are of the original Aztec nation is indicated by historical records which show that a body of them migrated to the country they now inhabit near Cuernavaca, fifty miles south of the city of Mexico. Their language is that of the Aztec, two villages speaking nothing else, while a few speak Spanish as well.

The arts of civilization, sculpture, painting and stone building, which formerly distinguished them, have disappeared, but the red and wooden houses they now occupy are identical with those of the earlier period. The race type of 2,000 years ago remains intact.

"The Aztec of today is the Aztec of ancient times as far as purity of type goes. He is far more of an Aztec than the present day Egyptian is an Egyptian," said Dr. Hrdlicka to a reporter of the New York Herald. "In population they number several thousand. Like the Indians of North America, they assimilated to a degree the customs of the civilization about them. At present the Aztec is in danger of extermination from drinking. They took readily to the national beverages of Mexico and have steadily degenerated. The few arts, such as beadmaking and weaving, they possessed thirty years ago have slipped from them. They are inferior to the Yaquis, farther north, and are absolutely dominated by the Mexicans about them.

"Superstition and legend alone remain of their worship of the sun, the earth and the fire god. They have embraced Christianity. The churches are located in the middle of their villages, and the services are held in Spanish. This seems to have no destroying effect, however, on the integrity of their language. The ancient hieroglyphics, which have never been deciphered and which archaeologists believe to hold the secrets of a great civilization, the present Aztec is unable to translate. The art of writing his tongue has gone with the other attributes of former times. While a few can read and write Spanish, the majority are ignorant." Dr. Hrdlicka was loath to speak on this subject.

"It is not in my province to talk about that, for scientists are jealous of each other's prerogatives. I can only say that the old monuments mean nothing more to the Aztec than objects of superstitious awe. There is no clew to the unanswerable problem of the old Aztec nation and its origin to be obtained from the modern tribe. Measurements of the skulls of the present race when compared with those found in the graves of the old Aztecs show that the two are identical in this respect. The comparison of the features of the living Aztec with those found on the monuments and in wall paintings prove unsatisfactory on account of differences in dress.

"The Aztec does not confine himself to the Morelos region," Dr. Hrdlicka continued. "I have seen a full-blooded Aztec in the city of Mexico, and it is not an uncommon thing to find them in smaller towns. Once away from their villages, however, their individuality is lost, and they become like any citizen of Mexico. In dress and language they are alike, and one may distinguish the Aztec only by his physical characteristics. They are a branch of the Nahua race, to which the Toltecs, who preceded them and reached a higher degree of civilization, possibly belonged."

Dr. Hrdlicka brought with him many examples of Aztec handiwork, both ancient and modern, which will be added to the collection of the American Museum of Natural History. His additions to the museum from this expedition will make that collection the most complete of its kind in the world. He procured a number of Aztec skulls and parts of skeletons. They will prove invaluable in providing anthropological measurements. One of the rarest acquisitions is a Toltec skull in fine preservation. It belongs to an age antedating any present history of America.

In addition to the Morelos region Dr. Hrdlicka visited southern Utah, Arizona, New Mexico and a great part of Mexico. His researches in the Yaqui country will reveal what had hitherto been unknown about that section. That warlike people are a mystery to civilization, and little is known of the long warfare they have waged against the Mexicans. One of Dr. Hrdlicka's specimens from that country is a bullet they manufacture for rifles, for which they make the powder and cast the lead, using old shells. The examples of their work in weaving will add to the museum a department owned by no other institution in the world.

THE TOILS OF ERUDITION

[Original]

"It's hardly worth while," drawled Celia, "to try to be what you're not."

"How did you happen to think of that?" asked Edith.

"I've tried it and failed."

"Dear me! How could you even try?"

"It was last summer at the seashore. Winthrop Kyle was devoted to me during the whole of last winter, but when the days began to lengthen his attentions began to weaken. I was all broken up over it. Auntie noticed how I looked and got out of me what was the matter.

"I see how it is, Celia," she said. "Winthrop is intellectual. You are well, frivolous. For awhile he was charmed with your frivolity, but the time came when he tired of it. What you want to do is to improve your mind."

"I made up my mind to try it. When Lent began, I declined all invitations and shut myself up for study. I knew I was to meet Winthrop at Mrs. Blake's Long Island cottage in August, and I was 'boning' for that meeting as college students do for an examination.

"Winthrop came down to the Blakes a few days after I got there. I scarcely noticed him for awhile, and whenever he came where I was found me buried in a book. At last he grew tired of this and asked me to walk down to the beach with him. I closed the book as though I couldn't bear to leave it and went with him. When we reached the ocean, Winthrop threw himself on the sand and I sat down beside him.

"How refreshing," he said, "after the heat of the town, briefs, pleadings, lawbooks and all that to sit here and do nothing!"

"I should have seen that he was ready for light talk, but I was infatuated with my plan."

"A jellyfish had been thrown up on the sand beside us, and I seized upon it as a topic.

"It's pretty near pure protoplasm," I ventured; "about the lowest form of animal life. I wonder if there are the germs of thought in it."

"If there are, there's more in it than in me. I wouldn't think today for a kiss from the prettiest woman in the world."

"What's a kiss? Nothing more than the pressure of muscular fiber covered by epidermis against substances."

"It matters a deal whether or not they belong to different sexes. But never mind the definition. I'll talk to you by the hour about the thing itself. I believe it was just such a scene as this in which Haidee kissed Don Juan."

"I never read that poem. Auntie says it's naughty. I thought it was Juan kissed Haidee."

"No; she kissed him first, while he was sleeping. At least that's my recollection of it, though I may be wrong."

"I must have missed that— I stopped short and blushed. It was a dead give away. Then I hurried on to something else. I've been much interested in ornithology of late. Recent experiments have shown that the markings on butterflies' wings are

"Don't you mean entomology?"

"Oh, yes, certainly—entomology. The marks on butterflies' wings vary with cold and heat, and the changes are inherited."

"That reminds me," he said, "that the dressmakers are studying the colors on butterflies' wings, copying the combinations in costumes."

"I determined to talk about something that he couldn't turn into ridicule and ventured upon history."

"I've been reading the 'Decline and Fall,'" I commenced.

"Decline and fall of what?"

"Why the Roman empire, of course."

How stupid of you!"

"How long was it falling?"

"How long? Ever so long. It must have been ten years."

"I cast a side glance at him and thought I saw him smile. He threw a pebble into the waves and changed the subject.

"I'm going to have an automobile," he said.

"I don't like automobiles. They are so modern. All the ages are associated with horses. We have the steed in Assyrian pictures down to—

"The present street car horse."

"It was too bad. Here I had been studying half a year to please him to be turned off in this ridiculous fashion. However, I pulled myself together for one more effort.

"Professor Barnes," I said (Barnes paid me attention after Winthrop dropped me, and I put this in on purpose), "gave me some delightful historical reading recently. Macaulay's 'History of England.' What a good Catholic Macaulay must have been!"

"Why do you think so?" he asked.

"Well, in that part about some New Zealander sketching the ruins of St. Paul, he says that maybe the Catholic—or was it the Church of England?

"Don't you think he referred to the Christian Scientists?"

"No; I'm sure he didn't. There was something about the 'twilight of fable' in connection with the antiquity of the popes. Of course it was the Catholic church."

"What do you suppose Winthrop did then? He turned to me and said:

"Celia, you are a little fool. I always felt sure you were a fool, and this effort to be learned has convinced me."

"Well, what did you do then?"

"I cried."

"And what did he do?"

"He kissed me."

"When are you to be married?"

"Just before the holidays."

"How can they, mamma, when my side is against the wall?"

SUBSTANTIAL DREAM

Julian Blair was a lawyer without practice. He had proposed for Alice Howard, but had no hope that her father would overlook his poverty.

One night while lying in a sort of delirium a man came into his room who introduced himself as a lawyer from London and told Julian that his uncle had died and left him $500,000.

"I must leave in half an hour for New York," he said, "but you may expect me in a week or so, and then the necessary arrangements will be completed for placing you in possession of your inheritance."

With this the stranger vanished, and Julian Blair, as he raised himself on his elbow and looked about the room, asked himself whether he was awake or dreaming.

A sudden drowsiness overcame him, and when he again opened his eyes it was morning.

"Was it a dream?" he cried as he dressed himself. "No. It is impossible. There is the chair the man sat in. I remember his features distinctly and every word he said and even the tone of his voice. Thank God, it was no vision! It was a reality."

Julian found after making his toilet that he was still a little feverish, with a strange fullness in his head, but a glance at the mirror showed that he was looking unusually well.

One thing startled him not a little in the course of the morning. After a brief interview with one of the bankers of the town he walked out on the street with $500 in his pocket.

A sudden doubt struck him as he reached the sidewalk. Had he made a mistake in telling the banker of his good fortune? If the whole thing was only a dream, as he sometimes suspected, he had done a very bad thing.

"Pshaw," he said to himself, "I am sick and nervous! How can it be a dream?"

"I should
